

“I am very proud of the successful partnership Hans Wegner and my father created together. Today, as the company’s third-generation owner, it is now my responsibility to ensure that their shared philosophy and legacy endures.”

Knud Erik Hansen

Designed by
Hans J. Wegner

One of the giants of Danish modern design, Hans J. Wegner (1914-2007) was, to many, the ‘master’ of the chair.

While his love and understanding of wood was virtually unparalleled, his output was innovative and prolific. Indeed, he created over 1,000 pieces and more than 500 chairs through a philosophy of simplicity that centred on the successful balance between form and function.

In 1949, Wegner met Carl Hansen’s son, Holger, at one of the master carpenters’ exhibitions in Copenhagen. The two agreed to collaborate and soon, his daring and modern designs were being turned into series production.

Carl Hansen & Son’s construction and superior finishes combined with the beauty, strength and attention to ergonomic detail of Wegner’s designs was to become a huge success, and enabled the two to build both a long and successful career and international reputation, together.

Carl Hansen & Son

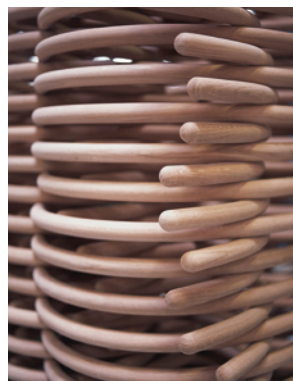

Today, Carl Hansen & Son continues to exclusively produce the furniture of Hans J. Wegner at our dedicated facility in Denmark.

Inspired by (and respectful of) the strong, versatile and natural materials Wegner used in his designs, we place great emphasis on adhering to his detailed drawings, standards and principles

In doing so, we also work closely with the Wegner studio to ensure that both quality of craftsmanship and his legacy is maintained.

All of the wood we use comes from renewable, sustainable sources, robust procedures and inspections ensure that the wood and joinery is perfect, and checks are carried out through the entire process.

At every stage of development, careful attention to detail ensures that furniture from Carl Hansen & Son will last for generations to come.

Made for you

Furniture from Carl Hansen & Son is a celebration of the harmony between timeless design and natural materials.

Through a unique combination of craftsmanship and modernity, the Y-chair (or 'Wishbone Chair' as it is often called due to the distinctive shape of the back) was the first of Wegner's designs for Carl Hansen & Son.

A light and relatively small piece of furniture, its curved hind legs, gently steam-bent top-piece and Y-shaped back provide both freedom of movement and generous comfort.

Made exclusively from renewable, sustainable hardwoods, the versatile CH 24 is our most popular chair and a global design icon, loved and cherished by people all over the world.

“A well thought-out
construction can be
its own decoration.”

Hans J. Wegner

An understated work of simplicity, the CH 24's graceful shape and delicate appearance belies a hidden strength and functionality that's ready-made for any home.

The CH 24's ergonomic design allows you to sit with your back straight and to move within the chair; the seat is woven using 120m of strong and resilient paper cord by one of our highly skilled craftsmen and women. Built for comfort, built to last.

We make the chair,
you give it the history

Born of Danish design sensibilities, it takes time to give a CH 24 its history.

It can't be manufactured, and it doesn't happen overnight.

Wishbone Chairs live long lives, but it is our customers around the world who give them a sense of identity.

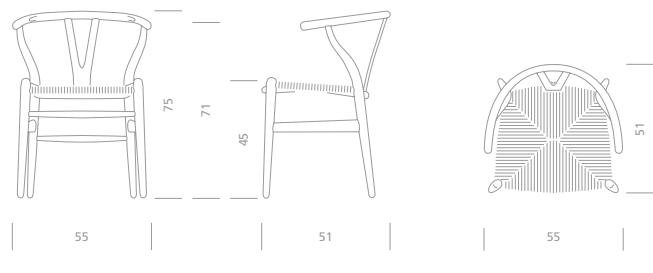

From generation to generation, they live with us and move with us – they become a part of our lives.

It's no wonder every CH 24 has a story to tell.

“The chair is the thing that is closest to people so it is important that its detailing is in order. I feel details as much as I see them. People touch the furniture, they see with their hands.”
